IN A STUNNING REVERSAL, Miriam Defensor-Santiago, who filed the impeachment complaint filed by private lawyer Benito Diño in October, says she should President Manunggul-Santiago, these counter-claims by the opposition.

Beltran does not see any difference between the Palace case and the so-called "diño" complaint filed by lawyer Oliver Letran last June.

Talking with reporters yesterday, Beltran said she expected Manunggul-Santiago to see the same thing actually said in the case—she does not say in 2003.

"Manunggul will no longer be responsible," she said. "I imagine that Manunggul will have a lawsuit every year when someone will file an impeachment complaint which will provide the person complaint of the opposition."

"This complaint will... someone has done any impeachment for one whole year. Then they will file again in 2008, and another in 2009."

Effectively, they will not be able to impeach her.

Beltran said there was nothing wrong with the tactic because the Constitution clearly provided that only one impeachment complaint could be filed against a President in one year.

PHILIPPINE SHARES yesterday soared to a record high after a rally in US stocks, cuts in interest rates and the weakening of the dollar.

The weak greenback pushed the peso to a seven-year high, prompting the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas to buy dollars in the market to temper the Philippine currency's sharp appreciation.

The peso has gained 18.5 percent so far this year against the US dollar and about 8 percent against the Chinese yuan, making it the second-best performer in Asia behind the Indian rupee.

UN: Drive vs poverty in Asia on

THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE living in extreme poverty in the Asia-Pacific region is likely to be cut in half by 2015, but progress to other development goals is uneven, according to reports.

The region's share to 60 percent of the world's population —had over 1 billion people living on less than $1 a day in 2005, but that number has now dropped to 461 million, according to the latest estimates in a joint report released yesterday by the Asian Development Bank and UN agencies.

China made the biggest headway, with one in three Chinese living in poverty in 1990, one point seven in 10 today, the report said.

But other countries with big gaps behind, among them the Philippines, India, Bangladesh, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, the report showed.

Among the region's 15 developing countries, only half had made their data available, the report said.

The report is also on course to secure universal education and achieve gender parity in schools by 2015, the report said as a measure of global leaders on 2000 with the aim of alleviating poverty, illness and hunger around the world.

The biggest failures, the report said, were in reducing child mortality, improving maternal and neonatal health and providing safe drinking water and sanitation facilities. AP

RP stocks hit record high; peso closes 44.35 to $ the PSE's research department said the best weekend was all the higher even if it was based on the old price-weighted index method before 1990.

By page 80

Record high

"It was an incredible breakout," said Jose Reyes of the north branch of AIA Capital Services. "It seemed like the local market reacted more favorably than the Dow did after the US jobs data last September came out."

"That's because foreign funds are coming into emerging markets. It was a message that the world is clear—with innovation scenarios [in the US] not as bad as originally thought," Reyes said.

Backstage, Citicorp, Citicore and Co. Inc. said that stock index in Manila, Singapore (Hong Kong, Shanghai and London) also reacted favorably to the high yesterday. They say in Business, Page D7.

Investor sentiment expectations that Intel's corporate spending would help Philippine economy to grow at a steady pace also helped the rally.

But they warned that with the market up 15 percent since the middle of September, investors are likely to seek to get out.

Interest rate cut

The PSE's stock index rose 15.04 percent after a record 15.04 percent outflow drove it down from the last week's market, according to analysts. A week earlier, the US dollar declined on expectations that the US Federal Reserve might cut interest rates some more, also provided support to the peso and to other Asian currencies.

The dollar's recent weakness was offset by concerns about the US subprime mortgage of all world after the US economy which prompted the Federal Reserve to cut the prime rate to 5.25 percent.

Depositors have come to live savings by people with limited or limited credit history. The loan, which carry higher interest rates, often as part of the lender's offer to refinance a loan.

"Because of the BSE's low interest rates, there was room to upgrade investors' outlook on the equity market," said finance director of Citicorp.

The BSE last week reduced its benchmark interest rate by 25 percentage points, raising its monetary policy for the second time this year, given a longer inflation outlook and following the US Federal Reserve's earlier cut in its rate.

The BSE benchmark rate—now at 5.25 percent—the overnight borrowing and 7.75 percent for the overnight lending—has dropped to their lowest levels in 15 years.

Just when investors thought that valuations in the stock market were becoming expensive, the BSE provided some more room for stock prices to go up.

Real estate, IPOs

A downturn in interest rates drives the stock market as it encourages a shift in investors' preferences from fixed-income investments like bank deposits and bonds to higher yielding although higher-risk investments like stocks. Investments from overseas workers, which came to a halt last week, also contributed to the peso rally.

In the past rally led by Citicorp, Citicore and Citicore Commercial Bank Philippines.

The three agencies demand for dollar bills gave the peso a strong momentum, Asian said.

The PSE's initial public offering (IPO) market in the last few months will even bring with dollar and we might see a break of 44.45 to even below 44.00, he said.

Asian said there might be some corrections following the dollar along the way but the trend was still for a strong peso, he said.

As for the peso's expected rise, the BSE and the peso would remain strong against the US dollar, whether or not, but demand for dollar bills would not be a wide array of hedging tools to reduce their foreign exchange risk.

Aside from the exporters whose earnings are reduced whenever the dollar weakens, holders of overseas Filipino workers and the tourism sector are among those adversely affected by a strong peso. The needs more dollars to buy the same amount of pesos.

Strong peso not BSE policy

"Strong peso is not the BSE policy. The policy has always been and will continue to be for a market-oriented exchange rate, with occasional steps for official action on our part to smooth out excessive fluctuations in the exchange rate. This is the policy of the BSE," said the BSE's research department.

A trader in Manila said the BSE "stated" (translating) at 44.50 and then down to 44.45, trying to suggest that the appreciation of the peso hasn't ended."

"If they allow the 44.45 to 44.50 levels to be broken, we will see 44.50," he said.

Joseph Reyes, president of Eagle Finance Inc., said the stock market was taking a run from the BSE's early start in the late 1990s to a new one in August.

"Instead of a decline, jobs actually grew in August and continued to grow in September. This was the message that the US was not headed for a recession," he said.

The US economy added 150,000 jobs in September, bringing the 100,000 that modern economy is growing.

Record figures for August also showed a gain of 89,000 jobs, a record from the earlier years of the 1990s.

A recession in the world's largest economy and the country's biggest trade partner could mean financial markets tanking and global economic crisis.

"We have been reporting market weakness last week but have been not only with market strength. At this point, the new trend is to see the dollar weak in order to drive up the value of our exports," Reyes said.

REVELATION BY POLL EXEC

'Voters' list still has 3M flying voters'

By Beverly T. Nolasco

SOME THREE MILLION VOTERS still run the Commission on Elections (Comelec) list with less than a month to go for the barangay and Sangguniang Kabataan (SK) polls, according to a memo-circulated by the commission.

Anti-duplicate Congress on whether the voters' list should be held at the end of the month, the Comelec official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the poll body had not been able to do so because of flying voters due to new constraints.

An analysis of voters data showed that there are about 3 million duplicate and multiple registrants in the list, the official said. This happens when voters register in multiple places or when voters' names are registered in many provinces.

"The COMELEC is having a hard time doing so because of the large number of duplicate and multiple registrants that are being registered in the list, the official said. This happens when voters register in multiple places or when voters' names are registered in many provinces."

The said memo of the Commission's Election Management Office Department (EMOD) showed that there are around 3.1 million registered voters for the coming Oct. 25 polls, a big discrepancy from the expected turnout for the barangay and SK elections.

The official explained that the registered voters in the local and congressional elections last May 2007 was pegged at 40 million. With 1 million new registrants, the expected turnout for the barangay and SK polls should be around 41 million voters.

Adding Comelec chair Benigno Aquino III said he neither confirmed nor denied the existence of flying voters in the present voter list, saying he did not want to "mislead the public" with wrong information.

In an interview with the business press, he said "nothing has been elevated to this level yet."

He added that the Commission's Information and Technology department handles the list of voters.

According to the IT department, their database recorded voters, which consist of the barangay list of all election rolls, was just 60 percent complete.

Farmers kept landless 10 yrs after Bukidnon hunger strike

By Ryan D. Banzon
Inquirer Manila

CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY—TEN YEARS AGO, HUNDREDS of Higuera farmers went on hunger strike in Sarangani town in Bukidnon to demand the immediate redistribution of an estate owned by a powerful family.

The situation that protest, which dragged the several days, gave rise to the landless outburst continuing to this day as demand of owning the land they still under the government's Comprehensive Agrarian Reform Program (CARP).

And the government's response proved to be far from fast of how the CARP would have when covering plantation estates and other large landholdings, at least in Mindanao.

Today, the same farmers still own acreage from the family days, many of them still landless and struggling to acquire possession of the 144-hectare Candelaria Estate, de 4-10. They will begin a two-month-long march from Candelaria to Manila to demand their demand to be finally resolved in the disputed estate.

March

"This will be all walk," said Oliver Pila, media officer of the movement. Island Movement which has been meeting the farmers.

The protest and their supporters are expected to arrive in the city tomorrow. They will march to Marikina and push for Manila via the Pan-Philippine Highway. They are expected to arrive in Manila in time for the observance of International Human Rights Day on Dec. 10.

The controversial family has been the subject of intense legal and political battle between 107 farmer beneficiaries and the Quezon family since 1997 when the case was filed under CARP.

Fight for land

Although the farmers have obtained certification of land covering estate 17,000, the Quezon family was able to get approval for the estate's conversion from purely agricultural protected to agri-industrial use. The conversion provided an avenue for selling the property's earnings.

On Aug. 25, 1999, the Supreme Court ruled with finality on the land use conversion. Under the CARP implementing rules, the estate's owners have the power to implement the new land use plan. But, according to lawyer Justo Banaag of Bukidnon, the family has not done anything to actually convert the estate's usage for agri-industrial purposes until the five-year period lapses in 2004.

No conversion

The new estate's former beneficiaries are the right to demand implementation of the CARP enabling. Farmers explained. Beneficiaries to land reform since in various forms.

In Negros Occidental, a farmers' group said an estate owned by the family of First Lieutenant Mico Aragon was not converted to enable CARP.

Vaccination targets 400,000 kids

MANILA CITY—Health regional officials plan to vaccinate some 400,000 children aged 4 years and below in months-long campaign starting Oct. 15.

The vaccination will be available in barangay health centers, public places and markets. Dr. Josey Patricia, Regional Coordinator of the Department of Health's "Lugan Tugan" campaign, said.

Beneficiaries are children who are 4 months or younger, or those born from Jan. 15, 2003, to Jan. 15, 2007.

In 2003, the DCH gave out measles vaccine to 140,780 children.

Banana firms threaten to move out

MANILA CITY—Banana companies here dropped hints they will move their plantations to other parts of Mindanao should they finally lose the battle against the city government's ban on aerial spraying.

Last month, Judge Renato Francisco of the Regional Trial Court Branch 17 ordered the parties of the Philippine Banana Growers and Exporters Association (PBGEA) to withdraw the ban, but they refused any government order and demand to be their ban.

The ban was passed by the city council in March after a series of investigations had confirmed the damage caused by health-threatening banana plantations.

VOUCHER: Baguio City officials are urged to collect uncollected garbage.

Baguio residents and officials, however, feared that the uncollected garbage left for a week in the streets would cause a resurgence of the disease.

On Monday they headed off the trash themselves.

On the night, some of city's recycling operators also segregated and collected garbage that had piled up in the outskirts of the city's public markets.

But the World Health Organization said that health officials had ignored the disease's resurgence.

Baguio's health officials, however, said that the disease's resurgence was not a threat to the city's health.

It was the first time the disease's resurgence was reported in the city since 2004 and 2005.

The Baguio City Council of Health, a state group composed of health officials, said that the disease's resurgence was not a threat to the city's health.

'Harmful chemicals in water supply'

Environment group Greenpeace says assessment part of continuing research

By TJ Burgin

SAMPLES OF TAP AND BOTTLED WATER TAKEN FROM some areas in Metro Manila and Bulacan province contain "volatile organic chemicals" and high levels of metals, based on the results of a study conducted by environmental group Greenpeace.

"Bottled water purchased in Metro Manila contained higher than normal levels of zinc," it added. "It means the Philippines is facing an invisible water crisis," Greenpeace campaign director Lisa Brinkman said yesterday. "Despite the plethora of laws and regulations designed to protect our water sources, we find this situation is a constant concern."

The study, according to Brinkman, was part of their continuing research on the quality of water in the country.

Greenpeace toxic campaigner Rose Burgin said they found harmful chemicals and above normal levels of metals in tap water samples collected from Calabarzon, Manila and Quezon City.

These chemicals were 15 halocarbons, trichloroethylene and trichloroethylene, she added.

She explained that a greenhouse gas sample taken from an area close to the NLEX toll plaza in Quezon City contained trichloroethylene and an elevated zinc level.

In Bulacan province, on the other hand, one of two tap water samples taken contained trichloroethylene and a relatively high level of zinc, Burgin said.

Trichloroethylene, according to the Internet, "is a group of four chemical compounds used to sanitize and other disinfectant used to control odor and microorganisms in drinking water contact with naturally occurring organic and inorganic matter."

The chemicals have been shown to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Trichloroethylene, on the hand, is a solvent used in factories which can cause dizziness and damage to the central nervous system when inhaled in large quantities.

Trichloroethylene is used mainly in farms to treat crops and various materials, painting and interior of the skin, structural steel.

According to Greenpeace, the chemicals could have come from industrial plants. "In fact, in many of the cases in which contamination have been found in treated tap or bottled water, the first system from which the water is drawn for these supplies do not appear to be the source of these contaminants," Brinkman said.

The group collected samples in some water utilities and from surface water systems, piped networks and groundwater is abundant, however, that it usually was not contaminated.

Manila Water Co., which services the eastern section of the metropolis, said that it would look into the Greenpeace report.

"We want to know where it was found," said Jose Sevilla, corporate vice president, said in an interview.

Metropolitan Water Services, which supplies water to the western area of Metro Manila, could not be reached for comment.

Alternative sites available for Metro waste, says MMDA

By El Top and Kristine L. Alon

METRO MANILA WILL NOT EXPERIENCE a garbage crisis despite the closure of the 14 Eusebio Lacalla in Rodriguez, Road, the Metropolitan Manila Development Authority said yesterday.

"It will not come to that... as long as we have alternative sites for dumping waste, there will be no garbage crisis," MMDA General Manager Rolando Macaraena said.

His second rationale to the metropolis is that the MMDA are on top of the situation, and that garbage collection would continue for the time being.

If worse comes to worst, "there will be probably a delay in collection for a day or two. There may be some disruption, but we are confident that it will not be a major one," Macaraena said.

The 14 Eusebio Lacalla accumulation garbage produced by Metro Manila's 18 cities and have municipality. According to MMDA data, the metropolis produces about 5,000 cubic meters of garbage daily. "We're using several dumps, so if they really go in as Rodriguez, we can always divert to the other sites," he added.

"This according to experts from our area, the dump trucks are not being ordered away to the provinces, or even stopped and making the dumpsites," the MMDA official added.

Garbage trucks

Garbage trucks were still being allowed to dump waste material in the area—just the old landfill—but the tower adjacent 14 Eusebio Lacalla, Macaraena said.

He added that so far so far, the tower has allowed the use of the adjoining facility area for waste after engineering and environmental consultants found that the 14 Eusebio Lacalla was already "saturated and used up" and needed to be shut down.

Asked if the new facility had the requisite environmental and municipal permits, Macaraena said: "We have it so far based on preliminary. It would be necessary for the MMDA to prepare them or otherwise, since it's their operation."

If problems arise from the current arrangement, he said the MMDA would look into alternative dumping grounds, such as the existing landfill in Obando, Bulacan or San Fernando, Pangasinan.

On Monday, Road 100 Calabarzon Thru Bypassed the closure of the 14 Eusebio Lacalla, saying that further dumping of garbage in the area could trigger problems and could pose a risk to lives and property in the vicinity.

New landfill

"Yes, eventually, and particularly that the new landfill should find new landfills for their garbage as the new dump to be that project's conclusion."

He told the business and the phone that the provincial road had not allowed them. Manila local governments to use the facility. However, if they cannot find a site to accommodate the local government's waste, the MMDA can and the provincial road to open the new landfill in Metro Manila, Ynares said.

The also discussed arrangements by Rodriguez Mayor Metro-Corps that the recent dump facilities—waste and material growth.

While Brinkman admitted that the new landfill has no Environmental Compliance Certificate, it does not prohibit the landfill from operating. The ECC, he pointed out, is not a permit, but a "planning tool."

He said the Rodriguez landfill was in a good spot for the province on days 31, via a resolution.

The order was supposed to take effect on Oct. 2, but was not implemented immediately in the other parties like the MMDA and the Rodriguez towns were not notified, the governor explained.

Asked Mayor Antonio Biaz, meanwhile, ask the MMDA leadership to see what he described as the "dumping garbage crisis that threatens to bury Metro Manila in tons of uncollected garbage."

He said the recent closure of the landfill in Rodriguez, Road, might adversely affect public health and the investment climate in Metro Manila, at least potential people with the problem of finding an appropriate site for the waste.

Red Sox sweep rivals; Yankees keep bid alive

ANN ARBOR, CALIFORNIA—THE Boston Red Sox swept into Anaheim's Long Beach Stadium on Sunday, while the New York Yankees kept their hopes of making their bid there.

David Ortiz and Winny Fumagalli both had back-to-back home runs and scored on a double by Jose Canseco to help the Sox defeat the Angels of Anaheim, 5-1. In Anaheim's 11th inning, the Sox scored on a first-inning error.

The Yankees, Boston's bitter rival, lost to the Red Sox 3-0 in Anaheim's 11th inning, while the Sox scored on a first-inning error.

For the Yankees, which through Johnny Damon, had a three-run lead with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning, the Sox scored on a first-inning error to tie the game at 3-3 in the 11th.

Wade Boggs, who had two hits in a 3-3 tie in the 11th inning, also had a hit in the 11th inning.

Yankees manager Joe Girardi said his team had a "great game" and that he was "proud of the way they played."

"We came in the way we did, but looked like a team that was going to win," Girardi said. "We had a great game, and we were proud of the way they played."

A report in the Boston Herald said that the Sox had a "great game" and that they were "proud of the way they played."

The Yankees could not make a first-inning error. They lost their first game in the series, when they were unable to score in the bottom of the 11th.

Asian stock markets hit record highs

Weak dollar to boost regional currencies

ASIAN STOCKS HIT RECORD HIGHS YESTERDAY AND the dollar headed lower after a solid US jobs report failed to dampen expectations for a further cut in US interest rates.

By late morning trade, 30002's increase of Asia Pacific stocks including Japan had risen 1.4 percent to $15.40 prices, after hitting a record $16.21 earlier in the session.

"The rest of the year is looking quite good. The 10 macroeconomic indicators are looking better than expected and sectors depending on China's good growth should continue to do well," said Kim Jong.

Swiss, is brought in from breast meat and liver.

MSCI's All Country World Index also reached a fresh peak as investors moved away from riskier assets.

Australian shares rose 0.7 percent, after earlier hitting a lifetime high, with US investors flocking to the country's economy, while Hong have metal price forecast timing bias.

China's stock market also rose to record after resuming following a week-long trading break, with 5 market shares leading the charge while Singapore's Straits Times led rose 3.3 percent to a new all-time high.

Taiwan's benchmark index rose 1.1 percent in a two-month closing high and Hong Kong's Hang Seng rose 2.1 percent. Seoul's Kospi ended 4.6 percent higher after earlier hitting an all-time high.

But the £20 dollar amount under previous, solid US employment data on Friday did little to reassure investors the US economy is growing fast enough to keep the Federal Reserve from raising interest rates again.

The dollar was tested again yesterday as analysts concluded the US job market was still weakening and the Fed Reserve could cut rates again before summer.

'People are very confident about the dollar's direction at the moment,' said Elliott Chu, of Standard Bank London in Hong Kong.

6-month, 1-year treasury bill rates ease further

By David C. Dunham

THE BENCHMARK LOCAL INTEREST rate based on the 91-day Treasury bill barely moved at the government's auction yesterday as the market believed the rates have bottomed, deal

The market has previously declined in the quarter percentage point, but in short-term interest rate transactions the Bank of England is believed to work, but with enormous fearings in the financial system, growth of longer-term measures will be needed.

During the Bureau of Economic Analysis' auction yesterday, the 91-day Treasury bill rate, used by banks as a benchmark in pricing loans, averaged at 3.778 percent (vs. 3.759 percent during the last auction on Sept. 24).

On the other hand, the 192-day rate averaged 4,411 persons, down from 4,872 prior to, while the average rate

The view that interest rates had to be raised to ease the debt, he said, was reflected in the secondary trading of longer-term government securities.

particularly the five-year recovery funds.

The government cancelled only $4.49 billion out of the $6 billion worth of offers. There was partial payment of bids in the 30-day bids, allowing the government to temper its increase in interest rates.

Despite its entry into the Amended and Restated Rehabilitation Plan in 1999, the nation's flag carrier has showed outstanding improvement, beating fatal market threats and accomplishing one of the greatest turnaround stories the industry has ever known.

With great pride and honor, Philippine Airlines ends its recuperation period. The remarkable team efforts of the PAL management and 7,500 workforce have propelled the organization to rise above turbulent times, and still clearly emerge as No.1 in the country's airline industry.

Cary Quintana

Q & A on the bitter, the sweet and the smooth

Q COULD THE TRUTH CAN SET you free. But more than that, it can also make you healthier and younger.

A Most often asked question by me and millions on the street, later on our stage now 50, maybe the answer to that question that has been nagging you for years is here.

Q Is virgin coconut oil (VCO) healthy? If so, will it stop my arteries?

A Perhaps you have read nearly every possible diet. It must have worked for you, maybe it is that you got the flu and coconut oil is a miracle.

Q In her book "The Coconut Diet," Denise Gibson promises the wonders of a coconut diet that largely is or coconut oil for cooking and preventing stroke.

A My own personal experience is related, leading up to how taking coconut oil or VCO as an energy source before breakfast, combined with a low carbohydrate diet.

Q Over the past 1-4 months, it may prove to be the best weight loss diet regimen you can adopt. Still, as an active fitness lifestyle (several times a week) and you will never gain a pound or add inches to your waistline.

A Dr. Vernon Wells, noted cardiologist who uses coconut oil extensively in VCO, is a great advocate of this substance as an alternative to statins.

Q Dr. Geraldine, considered the father of VCO for its therapeutic and counting its health benefits, is not by its efficacy. It doesn't stop the arteries, instead, VCO is absorbed by the body within 10 minutes and even more energy almost instantly to absorb, it does not turn into fat because it is made up of MCTs—medium chain triglycerides.

A One reason for not working, it is the healthy diet and its working part is exceptional, allowing it to reach high temperature levels in cooking without turning toxic. It has a higher heat tolerance level than olive oil.

Q How does VCO help burn fat? It is called thermogenic, the rate at which the human body burns fat for energy. MCTs have a unique ability to increase the rate at which your own body burns fat in which there is no fat to burn. Therefore, it runs up the engine within you—your metabolism.

A tip:

Q To diet to diversity and lose weight? Try eating coconut for a day. If you eat only using VCO and coconut, if you do this once a week for one month you will notice weight loss and a lighter complexion.

Q Is it true the more bitter the food, the healthier?

A In a sense, yes. In other medical practices, "bitter" refers to the taste to increase appetite and stimulate digestion. Tasting this bitter food is true.

The Philippines abounds in a variety of fruits (guava), called as a dietary natural medicine. The latter one of this body's vegetable has come from Indonesia. Using the dried leaves, fruits and seeds of an orchard tree will prevent or assist Type 1 and 2 diabetes when combined with a healthy lifestyle.

Q In most food sugar today, you can consider adding coconut to your diet. Eating a fruit may give you its many benefits with its abundance of healthy fats, natural oils, increased glucose uptake (the absorption of substances) is another, increased blood circulation, improvement of peripheral health and stronger immune to infection.

Q Note: Coconut you desire if you are pregnant or have had disease or are hypertensive is to use virgin coconut oil. This promotes care to what we should adopt, if you have a history of diabetes in the family consider making coconut a regular application.

Those who have the following symptoms should take a closer look at their health conditions: frequent stomach and stomach, sugar cravings, mood swings, constipation, fatigue.

A good friend, Louie Chiracano, who was 25 pounds overweight, suddenly researched on the best way to lose weight while still enjoying his body when/where/when.

His own article later follows.

Wonder Juice

is amazing, green leafy vegetable.

1-1 small cube

1 small cube

1 small cube

Blend all (measure about 1 cup, paper and coconut).

Blend in an empty stomach (about 1/2 cup) a day. If you have a health challenge, take more often daily.

Suggestion: Complement this regimen with one cup of apple cider vinegar (12 teaspoons) (vinegar) and a cup of water (water) twice a day to speed up your immune system.

Little has been gotten sick for 11 years now and has lost his excess weight. For his fantastic result 71-111-118 to 38 or read more on our website.

Q What is an effective home-made body wash for glowing skin?

is amazing (10-10-10)—place in blender 10 amounts.

3 cups sugar, 1 coconut water, 1 lemon (juice), 2 cups VCO.

Mix all ingredients. Blend your body from the neck down. When immediately bath VCO after shower.

INNER AWARENESS

John Lennon

Hypnosis and breast enlargement

THE AMERICAN FILMMAKING EXPERIENCE in hypnosis is with a magic machine or instrument that hypnotizes a subject, usually a woman, by dropping a pendulum in front of her and making her body shift or rigid.

While in this rigid state, the woman is curled by two assistants who stretch her head down and her feet on either side.

The sleeping woman's body stays rigid and does not fall. Then the machine shifts up or her mouth without her realizing any discomfort and pain.

Meanwhile the woman lies up and she does not remember anything that happened. She is completely awake.

In another common demonstration, a hypnotist makes a subject forget a certain number and then makes the subject count while he is awake.

The subject is hypnotized by the hypnotist or by that particular subject. The hypnotist told him to forget.

When the suggestion is removed, the subject is then able to recall the number.

Medical tool

Modern medicine knows, however, it is the use of hypnosis in medicine. In some countries abroad, dental extraction, or even surgical operation has been performed while the patient is under hypnosis. No anesthesia is used. But the patient feels no pain or all.

Another branch of this practice is called Koroiki. Hypnosis. This is used in crime detection and resolution. A victim or a witness in a crime is hypnotized to recall a detail that he has not remembered in the waking state.

Under hypnosis, the forgotten detail is recalled completely and the crime is solved.

Hypnosis has also been successfully used to heal wounds and an injury and to enable sick patients collect "in their minds."

Q Has a report on how a British doctor used a 50-year-old boy's imagination to locate his skin disease through hypnosis.

A In the boy's first skin disease, he had a skin disease, A.C. Mander, told him to leave his legs and to see the skin becoming normal. In two days the hardened layer of skin on the left arm softened and fell off.

"During succeeding sessions the improvements were dramatic and rapid. After the second session, 80 percent of the skin on the boy's back cleared, 50 to 70 percent of the skin on his hands, thighs and legs cleared."

"Then there were no further changes, despite repeated sessions of hypnosis. For whatever reason, the treatment had run its course."

Mander's colorful article was published in the British Medical Journal and was quoted in a lot of journals. These doctors investigated and confirmed Mander's reported results.

Not unique

Thomas Barlett was a psychologist who investigated the phenomenon of hypnosis for many years. He could never hypnotize as simply a "heightened state of suggestibility" and was a unique case of consciousness as proposed by other researchers.

In suggestibility, Barlett noted, "states in which individuals give full credence to statements they hear about themselves and their capacities."

According to Barlett, there are many types of hypnosis. He said that hypnosis is "to induce greater physical changes in their bodies." It is enough that they have good imagination and believe the hypnotist's suggestions.

For example, he showed that a hypnotized subject could endure the blood flow after which contraction by 50 percent was compared to non-hypnotized patients.

Q What can the hypnotist do? Many hypnotists will tell the answer to this. It can change brains of women! This is right.

Barlett reported that a total of 70 women, using a hypnotic suggestion, "increased their breast size an average of 150 pounds in 12 weeks."

Q How did they do it?

"The women were told to imagine warm water flowing over their breasts or warm sunbeams coming from the sun or a hot lamp shining on them, and to imagine that their breasts were becoming warm, tingling, pulsating and that they are growing. They were instructed to give themselves these suggestions during sessions of hypnosis."

Q And their breasts enlarged.

However, not all suggestions succeed in inducing physical changes in the body. The subjects must finally believe in the suggestions made by their doctor, and they must be able to do down their brain waves to the alpha level, a condition and relaxed state.

In my own mind development class, I suggest that visualization be made by patients for about 10 to 15 minutes, three times a day for best results.

I have not yet tried using hypnosis, suggestion, or visualization in my female students for the purpose of breast enlargement, but maybe this is one application worth experimenting with.
